STUDENT SPOTLIGHT

SLOANE
REID

Sloane is a current Sophomore in the Lott Institute majoring in Public Policy Leadership, with a minor in Education and Journalism. She is originally from Grenada, MS and is on Executive for Big Event, Co-Director of Freshman Council, is a Tri Delta serving as the Music Chair, and a Leapfrog volunteer.

"Lott has helped me challenge my thinking and become more open-minded. It made me aware of more policy options that I was aware of before college. Also, through my different classes like Education policy and critical thinking, I am able to examine aspects of the education system differently. "

This summer Sloane has been given the opportunity to intern at Success Academy, which is a charter school in Harlem.

"This internship focuses on effective teacher strategies and education reform, particularly the effects of charter schools."

After graduation, Sloane plans on working in Washington D.C. either lobbying or researching for policy reform. She also wants to teach in the classroom at some point and eventually be an anchor on the Today Show.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Hydration Station: The new addition to our facility is officially up and running! Please take advantage the new hydration station outside of the downstairs restrooms.

24 Hour Access: There have been a couple of incidences where the front doors to the Institute have been left open over night and windows have also been left open. If these occurrences keep happening our 24 hour privileges could be removed. Please remember to close the doors and windows so that all PPL students can use the facility in the months to come.

Seniors: An email was sent out to all students to put together a special edition of the newsletter to feature every senior. All seniors are asked to give a brief bio and future plans after graduation. Please check your mailbox for this email and respond by April 20th or you will be left out of the special edition.
